Chapter IV. Youth and future generations

Youth and Future Generations are quite important. But what is even more important is that if we continue to only have Youth Led groups and not have intergenerational inclusion, we will continue to have what is becoming an issue of silos developing, self entitlement and the lack of communication where the generations do not understand one another.

In order for all generations to work together in solving global issues and fulfill the UN Sustainable Development Goals, there must be workability across all ages where there is not a focus on the age of the person. This is one of the simplest ways to foster cooperation. Our group is comprised of all ages and we do not focus on the age issue. This fosters a work environment of understanding, cooperation, collaboration and a safe space where everyone may learn from one another. There will always be maturity factor between ages and its important this reality is placed into perspective. This way no one is truly left behind.

Chapter V. Transforming global governance

Art is the precursor to communication and awareness where all stakeholders may come together to understand one another's perspective. This creates equity and fosters understanding between nations; and governments and their citizens.
